

Psalm 2

Tune: Strasbourg, 1539/Lyons, 1548

$\text{♩} = 80$

1. Why do the un - be - liev - ing na - tions rage,
2. All ren - e - gades must ans - wer to God's wrath;
3. "Un - der your scep - tre you shall bring them all,

and all the peo - ples vent their fur - ious ang - er?
he strikes the dis - ob - ed - ient heart with ter - ror.
break - ing their sove - reign - ty like pot - ter's ves - sels."

The rul - ers of the earth take up their stand
"I have set up in Zi - on," he pro - claims,
There - fore, you rul - ers, seek that which is wise.

a - gainst the LORD and his an - oint - ed, cry - ing:
"my chos - en king up - on my ho - ly moun - tain."
Kings of the earth, at - tend and hear his warn - ing.

“Let us now break their shack - les that sur - round us,
I will de - clare the word the LORD has giv - en:
Wor - ship the LORD a - bove with fear and tremb - ling;

and cast a - way the cords that tie us down.”
“You are my son, I’ve fath - ered you to - day.
and kiss his feet lest he in wrath de - stroy.

The LORD re - gards all reb - els with de - ri - sion;
If you but ask, I’ll give you all the na - tions
For his great fur - y quick - ly is a - wak - ened.

laugh - ing in scorn from where he dwells a - bove.
as your pos - ses - sion to earth’s fath - est end.
Bless - ed are all who find their help in him.