17. True to your word, LORD, you have done me good.
18. Ar - ro - gant ones de - fame me with their lies,
19. Your hands have made me; help me un - der - stand
20. Show mer - cy, for your law is my de - light.

In - struct me in your wis - dom and your judge - ment,
yet have I kept with all my heart your pre - cepts.
so that I learn your pre - cepts. Those who fear you May shame de - scend on eve - ry - one who wrongs me,

for I be - lieve the words of your com - mands.
De - spite their cal - lous - ness I love your law.
re - joice at me, for I hope in your word.
while I shall med - i - tate up - on your law.

I wand - ered far be - fore I was af - flic - ed;
 'Twas not for naught I suf - fered such af - flic - tion:
 I know, O LORD, your judge - ments all are right - eous, Let those who fear you turn to me with fav - our,

now I ad - here to all your right - eous laws.
 bet - ter to learn to trea - sure your de - crees.
 and you've chas - tised me in your faith - ful - ness.
 those who have un - der - stood all your com - mands.

Source of all good, make me to know your stat - utes.
 Your law is more to me than gold and silv - er.
 May your great love con - sole me, as you've prom - ised.
 May my heart, free from shame, fol - low your stat - utes.
