

Psalm 143

Tune: Strasbourg, 1539; Lyons, 1547

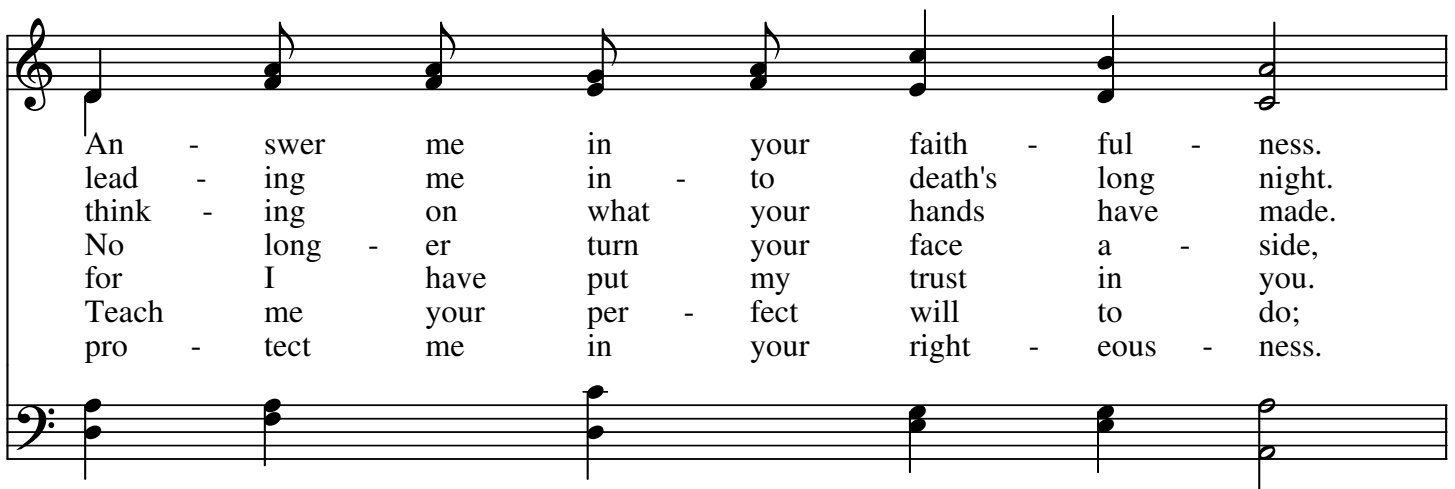

$\text{♩} = 80$

1. Lis - ten, Lord, to the prayer I of - fer,
2. All my foes con - stant - ly pur - sue me,
3. Ag - es past have I yet re - mem - bered
4. Hur - ry, Lord, an - swer my pe - ti - tion,
5. Let me hear of your lov - ing - kind - ness
6. Save me, Lord, from the foes that hound me;
7. For the sake of your name, O Lord God,

heed now my words of sup - pli - ca - tion.
crush - ing me in the dust be - neath them,
and called to mind your deeds of mer - cy,
be - fore my spi - rit fails with - in me.
ris - ing as sun - light in the morn - ing,
I flee in - to your arms for shel - ter.
main - tain my life with - in your keep - ing,

An - swer me in your faith - ful - ness.
lead - ing me in - to death's long night.
think - ing on what your hands have made.
No long - er turn your face a - side,
for I have put my trust in you.
Teach me your per - fect will to do;
pro - tect me in your right - eous - ness.

Judge not your serv - ant with - out mer - cy,
 My spi - rit faints in tre - pi - da - tion;
 I stretch my arms out to em - brace you,
 lest I should per - ish ev - er af - ter
 Show me the paths that I should fol - low;
 you are my God, so let your spi - rit
 In your great love de - stroy op - pres - sion,

for none are right - eous in your sight.
 my heart with - in is filled with fear.
 thirst - ing for your re - fresh - ing love.
 and join all those with - in the pit.
 to you I lift my wait - ing soul.
 lead me to walk on lev - el ground.
 for I am yet your serv - ant, Lord.
